

HOW MUCH BLOOD FOR OIL?

That's over ninety 10,000 gallon* tanker trucks full of blood spilled in Iraq.

Get more tanker trucks ready.
The U.S. is staying the course.

*The estimate of gallons of blood shed in Iraq is based on studies of casualties and on-the-ground observations suggesting that at least 604,000 people from Iraq and Coalition forces have been killed since the 2003 invasion. At 1.5 gallons of blood per person, this amounts to 906,000 gallons. Some might argue this is an over-estimate because a great number of the dead are children, some of whom may have contained much less blood than the adults.
